A few notes, depending on why you're writing:

- Prospective students: If you're interested in graduate study in educational data science, data science education, or STEM education, please include a short note about your background and interests — I'm happy to talk. You may also want to look at the Making Data Science Count research group and the Educational Data Science Graduate Certificate.
- Collaborators and partners: For research partnerships or school and community collaborations, a short description of the opportunity or question is plenty.
- Media, speaking, and conferences: Please include the topic, date, and format.
